The story in one breath

Three centuries after the Great Wars ended, a wounded messenger from the jinn reaches King Randar. That same night, the king is poisoned and Prince Orhan inherits a realm standing on the edge of a new war.

Creative positioning

- An original Arabic fantasy world rather than a retelling of a European setting
- A five-book internal structure spanning seventy chapters
- Four distinct kingdoms linked by one political and magical legacy
- A visual world suited to publishing, audio, screen, animation, and interactive conversations
